RESULT BOUNTIES FOR CLIP WORK

Agents pay clippers when results land.

Brands fund clip bounties. Clippers post public YouTube links. Reel checks the visible result and releases payment when the target is reached.

THE PROBLEM

Creator campaigns still run on trust.

Brands pay early

Money leaves before anyone knows which clips actually performed

Clippers chase promises

Good clippers want paid work, not DMs and screenshots after delivered

Proof is messy

Spreadsheets, manual checks, and delayed payouts slow every small campaign

WHY NOW

Short-form video has the reach. Brands now want proof.

200B+ daily Shorts views

YouTube says Shorts average over 200 billion daily views.

$37B creator ad spend

IAB projects U.S. creator economy ad spend at $37 billion in 2025.

THE PRODUCT

HOW IT WORKS

Funded work. Public proof. Payout.

How Reel works

Funded clip work. Public links. Agent checks. Escrow pays.

How it works

No private login. Reel reads the public clip page.

FOR BRANDS

Only pay for clips that reach the bar.

Clear spend

Set the view target, payout, max winners, and deadline before launch.

Visible progress

See submitted links, checks, paid clips, and unused funds.

Refund unused funds

Close a bounty and recover funds that were not paid out.

YouTube first

Start where clip work is obvious, then expand to more public platforms.

FOR CLIPPERS

Pick paid work, post the link, get paid when it hits.

Funded before work

Clippers can see a bounty is backed before spending time on it.

Public link proof

Submit a YouTube URL instead of arguing over screenshots.

Direct payout

When the visible views pass the target, reward goes to the clipper wallet.

WHY THE AGENT MATTERS

The agent is the checker, not the boss.

- 1 Reads the public clip page.
- 2 Returns the visible view count.
- 3 Checks again later if the clip is still growing.
- 4 Does not need a creator login.

WHAT IS LIVE

Reel is already running as a working testnet product.

Brand and clipper workspaces are separate. YouTube checks are live first. Scheduled rechecks are wired for clips that need more time.
